Urban Forum
Practice meets Academia

Call for projects

An invitation to reflective practitioners, practice-oriented researchers, and design critics to present and discuss their ideas for the development of sustainable cities and communities (built or drawn work, speculative or actual, contemporary or historical).

Lund University’s Sustainability Week | 8-13 April 2019

This year Sweden raises its ambitions in support of the Agenda 2030 and the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) in order to maintain momentum in working towards the planet’s sustainable future, in times where others deviate from it. The research platforms Urban Arena, at Lund University, and SLU Urban Futures, at the Swedish University of Agricultural Sciences, qualify as academic agents with concern for professional practice and the built environment – as such we want to join forces during Lund University’s Sustainability Week 8-13 April 2019. In line with European research programmes like JPI Urban Europe we see SDG 11 on sustainable cities and communities as a portal to all other SDGs, and the urban realm as a place where cluster problems are more manifest than elsewhere and where sustainability efforts can multiply exponentially and almost overnight. Convinced that particularly valuable action-oriented knowledge arises from the exchange of practice and academia, we arrange a new format of encounter: the Urban Forum | Practice meets Academia. For one week, practitioners of architecture, urbanism, landscape architecture, urban studies and the construction industry are invited to display their building projects (realised or not) and research endeavours (practice-based or -oriented) in an exhibitionSessions (in English or Swedish | 8-9 April 2019) dedicated to each project allow the authors to discuss burning questions, critical aspects, inspiring findings they wish to bring to light and get feedback on, in a collegial atmosphere. Project authors present their work during 20 minutes, followed by a moderated discussion of 10 minutes.

SUBMISSION

Submissions are welcome from practitioners, researchers, and design critics. Please submit an abstract or a project description (max 500 words and imagery, see submission template) before 8 March 2019 to Sonia Curnier (sonia.curnier@gmail.com).

The submissions will be reviewed by the committee by 18 March 2019. Selected project authors will be invited to prepare posters for the exhibition during the Sustainability Week and install them on 8 April morning. Supplementary presentation materials (models, movies, multimedia) can be included to complement the posters during the individual sessions. Technical support to be discussed with the organisers. Submission and participation is free of charge.

The organisers aim at publishing the selected projects in a format to be decided, in conjunction with the UN’s search for best practice in the implementation of the SDGs.
